

When I get home from work I want peace and quiet. I don't feel that it should be my duty to respond to telemarketer, even by picking up the phone. The number of calls I receive is beyond tolerance. Some calls even get abusive, especially when I say not to call.

I want one place (national list) where I can say I want no calls.

I don't want ANY exceptions, including charities, to the don't call list.

Telemarketers should be required to un-block their caller ID.

Automatic, predictive dialers should not be allowed to hang up once a number has been dialed - at least a message saying what company is calling and a button to press to stop future calls.

Computer sales calls should be prohibited.

If the phone companies are encouraging telemarketers, they should not be allowed to charge me for privacy services.

Cell phones should be off limits to telemarketers.
